INTRODUCTION

The Academy for Professional Excellence was established in 1996 and provides training, technical assistance, organizational development, research, and evaluation to public and private health and human service agencies and professionals.

The Academy has extensive experience in providing specialized services, including:

- multi-disciplinary competency-based trainings
- curriculum development
- needs assessment
- research
- evaluation
- meeting facilitation
- organizational development consultation services

The APS Training Project is a CDSS funded project of Academy for Professional Excellence and has the overarching goal to develop standardized core curricula for new APS social workers and supervisors and to share these trainings on a national scale. Professional training opportunities are a critical step toward ensuring APS social workers have the appropriate tools to serve their clients. The APS Training Project has worked extensively with state and national partner agencies in the development of this curriculum.

Our partners include:

- National Adult Protective Services Association Education Committee (NAPSA)
- California Department of Social Services, Adult Services Branch
- California State University Sacramento IHSS Training Project
- Protective Services Operations Committee of the California Welfare Director's Association (PSOC)
- California Social Work Education Center Aging Initiative (CalSWEC)
- California Association of Public Administrators, Public Guardians and Public Conservators

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Course Title: Understanding Self as Supervisor

Curriculum Development: Jill Nielsen, LCSW, in collaboration with the Protective Services Operations Committee, NAPSA Education Committee and the APS Training Project/Academy for Professional Excellence.

Target Audience: APS Supervisors

Training Description:
In this dynamic and interactive training, supervisors will acquire tools to assist them in understanding their multi-dimensional role and how to effectively and efficiently lead their staff to better performance and job satisfaction within a culturally sensitive framework. This training utilizes lecture, PowerPoint, and large and small group activities. Opportunities for participants to explore out-of-class partnerships with peers will be introduced.

Learning Objectives:
Upon completion of this training, APS frontline supervisors will be able to:

1. Identify roles of APS Supervisor and assess your competency in each role.

2. Learn to integrate strengths-based leadership skills into current supervision style to increase staff performance.

3. Identify appropriate uses of training, mentoring, and coaching skills and apply these skills with staff.

4. Describe personal vision for effective and productive work environment and identify steps to implement change.

5. Identify issues relating to professional boundaries and learn strategies for managing these issues.

6. Identify stages of cultural competency and how they may be utilized in the supervisory role.

Transfer of Learning: Ways supervisors can prepare for the training and then utilize knowledge and skills acquired during the training on the job.
BEFORE the training
Supervisors can work with their managers to:

- Identify their strengths as APS Supervisor
- Identify their challenges as APS Supervisor
- Identify goals for this training

AFTER the training
Supervisors can practice the following activities:

- Review Strengths Based Leadership 12 Questions with their manager.
  Supervisors can share their own answers to these questions.
- Review Strengths Based Leadership 12 Questions with their workers that they supervise during a unit meeting.
- Share their answers from the Learning Journal Activity regarding Work Environments with their manager.
  - What goal did the supervisor set up for themselves?
  - How are they going to implement this?

Dear Training Participant,

As a training program for the Academy for Professional Excellence at San Diego State University School of Social Work, MASTER (Multi-disciplinary Adult Services Training & Evaluation for Results) has begun a process of evaluating training delivered to Adult Protective Service workers. As part of this evaluation, we need your help.

At certain points during this training series, in addition to the usual workshop evaluation forms, you will be asked to complete various training evaluation activities.

These training evaluation activities have two main purposes:

1. To improve trainings' effectiveness and relevance to your needs, and help you better serve adults and their families; and
2. To see if the training has been effective in getting its points across.

Our goal is to evaluate training, NOT the individuals participating in the training.

In order to evaluate how well the training is working, we need to link each person’s assessment data using a code. You will generate the code number using the first three letters of your mother’s maiden name, the first three letters of your mother’s first name, and the numerals for the day you were born. Please put this 8-digit ID code on each of your assessment forms, exactly the same way each time. ID code information will only be used to link demographic data to test data to ensure that the training is working equally well for all participants. Once this linking is done, we will only be looking at class aggregate scores, rather than individual scores.

Only you will know your ID code refers to you. All individual responses to evaluation exercises are confidential and will only be seen by the Academy’s training program and evaluation staff. Only group averages and percentages will be reported. Individual results will not be reported to your employer. Aggregate data may be used for future research to improve training for Adult Protective Service workers.

If you agree to participate, you will fill out a questionnaires administered before and after the training. The questionnaire will be coded with a unique identifier system and all responses will be confidential.
There are no foreseeable risks to you from participating. There is also no direct benefit to you. Your responses will contribute to the development of a series of evaluation tools that will be able to accurately assess the effectiveness of adult protective service training. It is hoped that these tools will assist the Academy for Professional Excellence in improving training for adult protective service workers and therefore improve services to adults and families.

Your participation is voluntary and you may withdraw your consent and participation at any time. Participation or non-participation will have no effect on your completion of this training series.

By completing and submitting the questionnaire, you agree to participate. You further agree to permit us to use your anonymous responses in written reports about the questionnaires.

Your help with this evaluation process is greatly appreciated. Your feedback will be instrumental in helping to improve adult protective service training for future participants. If you have any questions about the evaluation or how the data you provide will be used, please contact:

YOUR IDENTIFICATION CODE:

In order for us to track your evaluation responses while maintaining your anonymity, we need to assign you an identification code. We would like you to create your own identification code by answering the following questions:

1. What are the first three letters of your mother’s maiden name?
   Example: If your mother’s maiden name was Alice Smith, the first three letters would be: S M I. If the name has less than three letters, fill in the letters from the left and add 0 (zero) in the remaining space(s) on the right.

2. What are the first three letters of your mother’s First name?
   Example: If your mother’s maiden name was Alice Smith, the first three letters would be: A L I. If the name has less than three letters, fill in the letters from the left and add 0 (zero) in the remaining space(s) on the right.

3. What are the numerals for the DAY you were born?
   Example: If you were born on November 29, 1970, the numerals would be 29. If your birth date is the 1st through the 9th, please put 0 (zero) in front of the numeral (example 09).

   ___  ___

Combine these parts to create your own identification code (example: S M I A L I 29).
Please write your identification code in the space at the top right corner of all evaluation materials you receive.

Remember your identification code and write it at the top of every evaluation form provided to you throughout this training.

- Resolving Work Problems
- Coordinate Backup Coverage
- Compliance with Mandates/Policies
- Disciplining Workers

Handout 1: Four Supervisory Leadership Roles
[See page 74 for pull-out version of handout]

Administrative Role

- Leadership - Lead the way through modeling and big picture interpretation.
- Direction - Guide others, especially during times of change. Make decisions and solve problems.
- Policy and Procedures - Supervisors must often interpret policies and procedures and may need to advocate for change. Policies and procedures may come from the state regarding APS practices or they may come be generated internally.
- Team Building - Create and encourage collaboration between team members.
- Resources - Supervisors need to identify what tools their team may be lacking and may need to advocate to obtain these to enhance the ability of their APS workers to serve their vulnerable clients.

Managerial Role

- Distribute Workload - One of the most important roles of an APS Supervisor is to assign new cases and supervisors must ensure that this process is done in an equitable manner.
- Protect and Maintain Resources - This role may require a supervisor to advocate on behalf of their team. APS Workers are the most precious resource that a supervisor has.
- Establish and Work within Timelines - APS Workers have several timelines that dictate their work. It is the role of the APS Supervisor to enforce these timelines and ensure compliance with state mandates.
- Establish Communication Systems - Supervisors are responsible for ensuring that their staff are informed through regular and effective communication channels such as email and meetings. This is especially important since APS Workers typically spend a considerable amount of time in the field and may have infrequent face-to-face contact with their supervisor.

Educational Role

- Skill Building - Supervisors are responsible for teaching staff new skills, not only with new workers but with seasoned staff.
- Teach Values and Belief System of Agency - The Supervisor plays a vital role in imparting to workers the overall mission and values that are integral to APS work but also that are a fundamental part of the larger agency.
- Provide Learning Opportunities - Supervisors must seek to provide educational and training opportunities that will help workers to engage with their work and develop new skills that will help them to meet future career goals.
• Teach Discipline and Accountability - Supervisors must help workers to develop skills that will enable them to manage their workloads effectively and stay in compliance with mandated timelines.

• Teach and Maintain the Historical Perspective - It is especially important for new workers to have an understanding of how APS programs have developed in a state or local county as this provides a context for understanding how elder abuse is viewed and how best practices for APS work have been developed.

Service and Support

• Physical and Emotional Well-Being - APS Workers are exposed to secondary trauma when they are out in the field and it is essential that Supervisors provide support and encourage self-care practices.

• Establish Mutual Respect - The supervisory relationship is built on trust and respect. A supervisor must model these qualities for a worker.

• Resolve Conflict - Supervisors must be able to competently manage problems and conflicts that arise between team members. If conflicts are not addressed effectively and promptly, the unity of the team may suffer.

• Demonstrate Empathy and Concern - APS Supervisors should model effective social work skills that they can then apply to their casework by demonstrating empathy and concern as appropriate.

• Communicate with Staff Regularly - Keeping staff informed is not only logistically important, but it is also a fundamental part of maintaining a healthy supervisory relationship.

L.I.F.E. Reports
Learning
In the Field
Experience
Optional Handout: Learning In The Field Experience (L.I.F.E.) REPORTS

Purpose:

The Learning In The Field Experience (L.I.F.E.) provides supervisors with the following learning opportunities:

- To apply concepts and methods learned in training.
- To practice providing feedback to other supervisors.
- To expand awareness of supervisory practices specific to APS work.
- To apply collaborative learning techniques.
- To receive feedback on professional development.
- To develop professional, supportive relationships with colleagues in neighboring counties or programs.

Rationale:

APS Supervisors work with complex issues and situations in similar settings. The scope and nature of supervision varies according to local or state practice, departmental procedures, administrative focus and organizational climate. Given the lack of federal oversight for APS programs, supervisors are often faced with the challenge of having limited direction in order to determine best practices. Additionally, new supervisors face the daunting challenge of learning skills that pertain to supervision while stretching or modifying casework behavior that worked for them when they were APS field workers.

Providing field experience for APS Supervisors provides an opportunity for collaborative learning while simultaneously developing professional relationships and connections that could prove to be useful long after the end of the project. Working with a learning partner from another agency, supervisors will be able to provide and receive feedback on their development or refinement of supervisory skills. Working on their goals, both supervisors will be able to compare the progress of their learning. Through a dialogue with professional support, supervisors can candidly examine their strengths and developmental needs.

Guidelines for the Supervisor's Field Experience (L.I.F.E.):

1. When choosing a learning partner, consider the following:

   - Does this partner work in a jurisdiction or office that is reasonably close in proximity?
   - Does this partner have a similar role within her/his department?
- Does this partner work within a similar type of state, county, parish or local office? (ie, rural vs. areas of high urban density; APS staffing ratios similar).

- Partnerships will be finalized by the end of the second session.

2. Schedule two days for collaborative learning

Supervisors will schedule a full day for visiting and learning in another agency and a full day when their learning partners will visit their agency. It is critical that supervisors schedule this time in advance. Your APS Supervisor CORE facilitator will give you parameters for these dates.

3. Focus on your own learning goals:

The field experience provides an opportunity for structured observation and feedback related to personal learning goals. The material that is being covered in the APS Supervisor CORE series will help you to determine these goals.

As you complete the APS Supervisor CORE classes, consider and take note of potential areas that may be appropriate for you to address as learning goals.

4. Between the first APS Supervisor CORE session and the second session, consider the following:

- Of the 4 Supervisory Roles, where do your strengths and weaknesses lie?

- Have you identified areas for improvement within the role that you consider to be your weakest?

- How can you improve upon your leadership style to ensure that you are utilizing your workers' strengths to their fullest potential?

- What can you do to enhance your team's work environment?

- Are you currently implementing culturally competent supervision practices into your daily interactions with your staff?

5. After completing the two day visit to your partner's program (between sessions 6 and 7), you will complete a L.I.F.E. Report and then present your findings to the whole class.

Assessing Workplace Style

- 5 Essential Supervisory Workplace Themes

- Cultivating Fairness & Equity
- Establishing Expectations
- Parallel Process
- Applying Authority
- Tending to Teams

Handout 4 - The Five Essential Supervisory Workplace Themes

Applying Authority
1. Supervisors are responsible for setting performance expectations and making a demand for work.

2. Supervisor must also recognize that the demands that they make will inevitably create negative feelings in the part of their workers. Supervisors must learn to encourage the healthy expression of these negative feelings in their staff.

3. Supervisors can also demonstrate how to effectively handle these negative feelings and thereby engage in effective parallel process.

Cultivating Fairness and Equity
1. Applying authority in a consistent manner is essential.

2. Supervisors must create a safe environment where cultural differences and similarities are explored and valued within the team.

3. Supervisors encourage APS workers to explore and value cultural differences and similarities of the APS clients that they are serving.

4. Supervisors must first explore and understand their own cultural identity and this will then be passed down to workers and clients through parallel process.

Establishing Expectations
1. Supervisor and the worker mutually come to an understanding about the work that needs to be accomplished, thereby providing a structure for the APS Worker to complete the work.

2. Supervisor must communicate what supports they will be providing to the worker, such as case consultation and logistical help managing complex case situations such as referrals to the Office of the Public Guardian.

3. Supervisor must also tune into the worker's underlying feelings, concerns, and thoughts about the expectations that are being placed on them.

4. If expectations are not clear and the supports that are to be provided to the worker are not clear, the worker will experience anxiety and this will impact outcomes with case interventions.
Parallel Process
1. The dynamics of the supervisor-worker relationship often parallels other relationships for the worker and also within the larger program or department.

2. A supervisor's behavior towards a worker impacts the worker's behavior and interactions with his clients and their family systems. Likewise, a manager's behavior towards a supervisor will impact the way that the supervisor interacts with his or her staff.

3. Parallel process can be used to produce positive outcomes with APS clients.

4. Parallel process can improve the interactions between staff at all levels of a department.

Tending to Teams
1. By effectively building the team aspect of their APS unit through parallel process, supervisors will teach workers skills to effectively manage build collaboration among family systems.

2. Supervisors must be able to both lead and follow as well as simultaneously teach and learn from others.

3. Supervisors must be consistent and flexible.

Slide #18

Applying Authority

- Supervisor responsible for:
  - Making the demand for work
  - Recognizing the negative feelings that result from expectations.

Slide #19

Cultivating Fairness and Equity

- Supervisor is responsible for:
  - Cultivating skills of self examination
  - Increasing knowledge about cultural identity

Slide #20

Establishing Expectations

- Supervisor is responsible for:
  - Clarifying expectations for the worker’s performance
  - Communicating supports available to the worker
  - Tuning into worker’s feelings, concerns, thoughts
Slide #21

Parallel Process

- The relationship between the supervisor and the APS Worker has a direct impact on the way that the APS Worker interacts with elders and dependent adults in the field.

Slide #22

Tending to Teams

- Essential Skills for a Supervisor:
  - Be able to Lead and Follow
  - Be Consistent and Flexible
  - Willingness to Teach and Learn

Leadership Styles

• Strengths Based Leadership

Slide #25

Basic Tenets

• The most effective leaders are:
  • Always investing in strengths
  • Surround themselves with the right people and then maximize their team.
  • Understand their followers’ needs:
    • Trust
    • Compassion
    • Stability
    • Hope

Handout 5 - Strengths Based Leadership 12 Questions

1. Do I know what is expected of me at work?

2. Do I have the materials and equipment I need to do my work right?

3. At work, do I have the opportunity to do what I do best every day?

4. In the last seven days, have I received recognition or praise for doing good work?

5. Does my supervisor, or someone at work, seem to care about me as a person?

6. Is there someone at work who encourages my development?

7. At work, do my opinions seem to count?

8. Does the mission/purpose of my company make me feel my job is important?

9. Are my co-workers committed to doing quality work?

10. Do I have a best friend at work?

11. In the last six months, has someone at work talked to me about my progress?

12. This last year, have I had opportunities at work to learn and grow?

Handout 6 - Strengths Based Scenario

Read the following scenario with your small group. Together, discuss how the "12 Questions" are not being addressed by the APS program in the scenario. As a group, come up with three recommendations for ways that this APS program can start to implement a strengths based leadership model.

Scenario:
Green County is a large, diverse county with areas of high urban density and pockets of violent crime. The APS program in Green County has been the target of budget cuts over the past four years and slowly the number of staff has been reduced by almost 50%.

Field workers are feeling stressed by increasing caseloads and they report that the cases that they are seeing are much more challenging than they were only a few years ago. Management has been promising that the program will transition to a new database for two years in response to requests by staff, but it has not happened and meanwhile the intake unit is struggling to keep up with the reports that are coming in, and each field worker is keeping their documentation on their own desktop computer.

Supervisors report that they do not have any way to track the status of the field workers casework and they learn at the point of case closure that many workers are not in compliance with mandates surrounding response times and documentation. Recent unit meetings have turned into bickering sessions between workers that caused one supervisor to become emotional and start to cry. Supervisors have started to avoid having one-on-one supervision sessions with their staff.

1. How are the “12 Questions” not being addressed?

2. Three recommendations:

Coaching

Coaching is:
- An on-going relationship that offers one-on-one or small group discussions targeted at helping learners become more successful.
- A process used to empower employees.
- A process that enables staff to improve performance and enhance quality of life.
Distinctions Make the Difference

- Aptitude - Is there a lack of skills or knowledge? = Training
- Attitude - Is the employee getting in their own way? = Coaching
- Available Resources - Is an outside factor getting in the way? = Training or Coaching
- Approach - Is the employee showing a desire for long term career development? = Mentoring

· Coaching Scenarios
Handout 8 - To Coach or Not to Coach

TO COACH OR NOT TO COACH?

When determining whether a situation requires coaching, think about the worker and the situation at hand and reflect upon the following questions.

1. Is this about Aptitude?
   - A lack of skills or ability getting in the way of a worker’s success.
   - Yes → Train
   - No

2. Is this about Attitude?
   - A worker’s mindset getting in the way of success.
   - i.e. Lack of confidence, commitment, enthusiasm, focus, anxiety, or frustration
   - Yes → Coach
   - No

3. Are external factors (Available Resources) getting in the way of success?
   - Lack of resources, changing market conditions, conflict with stakeholder(s), or lack of supervisory direction or support
   - Yes
   - No → Revisit Questions

4. Is there a lack of skills/abilities to effectively deal with external factors?
   - Yes → Train
   - No

5. Does worker’s mindset contribute to difficulties dealing with external factors?
   - Yes → Coach
   - No → Revisit Questions
Handout 9 - Coaching Scenarios

Review the following scenarios and decide with your group if you should use coaching, training, or mentoring to effectively address the situation. Explain why you feel that one strategy would be more appropriate than another.

1. You are supervising Jane, a talented APS Worker that has been with your program for ten years. She has always been on top of her work until your program transitions to an online data management system that requires her to maintain her case notes in real time. Since this transition, Jane has started to submit her assessments and service plans late and she has started to keep her investigations open for an average of 90 to 120- days. When you meet with Jane during your monthly supervision she confides to you that she feels overwhelmed by the database and that she thinks she is “too old” to learn how to use it.

Coaching, Training or Mentoring
Why?

2. You are supervising a new worker named Sam. He has an extensive background in gerontology and has a stellar record from multiple social work settings. He reports to you, his supervisor that he loves his new position as an APS Worker although he thinks that the financial abuse cases are really challenging. From reviewing his case notes, you observe that Sam does not understand the difference between a trust and a Power of Attorney, and he does not address the details of the allegations in the investigation sections that he documents.

Coaching, Training or Mentoring
Why?

3. Sylvia has been an APS intake worker for two years and her supervisor and colleagues note that she is very efficient and that she has excellent customer service skills. She always has recommendations for how to improve the intake process. Sylvia reports to you, her supervisor that she loves her job, but she does not know if she sees herself in this role for the next five years. She does not want to stagnate in field work and confides that she thinks this is a "dead end" job.

Task #2: Partner Interview

Ask you partner to identify two different areas of their job and to, in general terms, describe how he/she feels about their competence, experience, and motivation without labeling it high, medium or low.

Ask questions that will help you to make a determination about your partner's level of skill, experience, and motivation for each of the responsibilities. Place a check mark regarding their skill, experience motivation (high, medium or low) based on their responses. When your interview is complete wait until the presenter signals to switch interviewer roles.

Handout 11 - Coaching Questions

Starting a just-in-time coaching dialogue is often the hardest part. The following phrases/questions can help get the conversation started. Use the following list of questions when conducting a just-in-time coaching session. These questions will help facilitate a successful meeting or coaching session.

1. What are the key issues?
2. What’s getting in the way of people doing their best work?
3. What new opportunities would you like to mention?
4. What decisions do you need to make?
5. Who is the keeper of wisdom for this topic?
6. What information do you need to make a great decision?
7. How can I help you deal with current challenges?
8. What’s the status of key projects? Do modifications need to be made?
9. Have you begun planning for emerging needs?
10. What’s your goal related to people?
11. What’s your goal related to processes?
12. What’s your goal related to technology?
13. How are you doing relative to our goals?
14. What’s happening in the workplace that should concern/interest you?
15. What kind of feedback would be most helpful right now?
16. What information do you need and where can you get it?
17. Where will you face resistance or barriers?
18. If you were your supervisor, how would you approach this?
19. What do you like about this idea/opportunity/project?
20. What alternative approaches can you think of?
21. Who should be involved in this project/task/initiative?
22. What could you do to ensure optimal benefit/value/profitability?
23. Should you be spending time on this?
24. What’s on the top of your must-do list today?
25. Do you need anything from the team or supervisor to get that done?
26. What’s getting in the way of moving forward?
27. Do you have something on your list that you should reconsider, put off, or delegate?

- From Buddy to Boss
Handout 12 - From Buddy to Boss Scenarios

With your small group, read the following scenario and answer the following questions:

- What are the challenges presented by the situation?
- How would you handle this situation?
- If this happened to you in the past, how did you handle it? How would you handle it differently if it happened again?

Scenario 1
The APS Supervisor that has led your unit for the past 10 years just retired. You and one other frontline APS worker apply for the job. You have only been with APS for two years and you get the job. The other APS Worker is very seasoned and experienced. She tells her co-workers that she thinks that management does not like her because of her age. She informs your new team that you did not get the job fairly.

Scenario 2
You recently promoted to supervisor and you are now supervising a worker who you considered to be a friend. She has asked you privately to not assign her any hoarding clients or complex financial abuse cases. She has started coming in late and you recently learned that she took off three hours to go to a doctor's appointment without informing you of her schedule.

Scenario 3
You are supervising one of your former co-workers. From working alongside her in the field you know she has always struggled to stay on top of her work. While in the field you would always sympathize with her and commiserate about how hard the job was and how unfair the management expectations were, in spite of the fact that you were always able to handle your workload. As her supervisor you are now trying to encourage her to change her work practices; however she regularly answers, "You know how hard this is."
Scenario 4
You are a new supervisor and you are faced with the task of restructuring your APS intake unit. You need to add one new worker to the unit and you do not have any volunteers to take on this new role so you must assign the worker with the least seniority to the position. This person is a worker that you consider to be a good personal friend and you know that she absolutely hates to be tied to a desk and to do phone work. You will be supervising this unit and this worker on an on-going basis.
Cultural Competency

TIME ALLOCATED: 65 minutes

Slide #46

Cultural Competency

- What does it mean to be culturally competent?

Slide #47

Cultural competence refers to the process by which individuals and systems respond respectfully and effectively to people of all cultures, languages, classes, races, ethnic backgrounds, religions, and other diversity factors in a manner that recognizes, affirms, and values the worth of individuals, families, and communities and protects and preserves the dignity of each.

Racial and Ethnic Identity Development

Handout #15 Racial and Ethnic Identity Development

Our racial and ethnic identity is influenced by childhood and school-age experiences. It comes to the fore during adolescence and continues throughout our lifetime. Although our development process differs depending on our race and ethnicity there are four typical stages involved in developing racial and ethnic identity. Below are ways that each stage might be expressed.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Relative Unawareness</th>
<th>Exploration/Identification</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>- Racial and ethnic differences are recognized but race or ethnicity has low salience and is not considered important aspect of life.</td>
<td>- Actively engaged in defining for themselves what it means to be a member of their racial or ethnic group based on growing recognition that race and ethnicity are essential components of our society.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Acceptance of negative stereotypes about people from other races or ethnicities or about people from their own racial or ethnic group.</td>
<td>- Can include negative views of the mainstream in general and Whites specifically as well as rejection of dominant values and norms.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Examination of personal race and ethnicity may not have begun; great value may be placed on other aspects of identity.</td>
<td>- May experience conflict between allegiance to own racial or ethnic group and issues of personal autonomy.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Unconscious identification with whiteness; may have preference towards values and norms of dominate white culture.</td>
<td>- For youth, includes exploring positive aspects of one’s racial ethnic group membership; development of ways to function in the mainstream; and development of an independent sense of self.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Emerging Awareness</th>
<th>Commitment</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>- Understanding around the social significance of race and identity.</td>
<td>- Positive feelings about one’s ethnic group membership; experiences confidence and security about racial identity; acceptance of both positive and negative aspects of one’s racial/ethnic group.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Realization that in a society of multiple cultures people are sometimes treated differently and badly based on their racial or ethnic background.</td>
<td>- Commits to elimination of all forms of oppression.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Occurs after an experience or accumulation of experiences that lead to an abandonment of attitudes associated with relative awareness.</td>
<td>- Respects and appreciates other racial and ethnic groups; able to see positive and negative aspects of these groups.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Reactions at this stage will be varied and may include confusion, anger, guilt, depression, self and group appreciation, and deprecating attitudes and behaviors.</td>
<td>- Open to acquiring new awareness, knowledge, and skills regarding race and ethnicity as well as skills to combat and cope with racism and discrimination.</td>

ADDENDUM
Handout 1: Four Supervisory Leadership Roles

Administrative Role

- Leadership - Lead the way through modeling and big picture interpretation.
- Direction - Guide others, especially during times of change. Make decisions and solve problems.
- Policy and Procedures - Supervisors must often interpret policies and procedures and may need to advocate for change. Policies and procedures may come from the state regarding APS practices or they may come be generated internally.
- Team Building - Create and encourage collaboration between team members.
- Resources - Supervisors need to identify what tools their team may be lacking and may need to advocate to obtain these to enhance the ability of their APS workers to serve their vulnerable clients.

Managerial Role

- Distribute Workload - One of the most important roles of an APS Supervisor is to assign new cases and supervisors must ensure that this process is done in an equitable manner.
- Protect and Maintain Resources - This role may require a supervisor to advocate on behalf of their team. APS Workers are the most precious resource that a supervisor has.
- Establish and Work within Timelines - APS Workers have several timelines that dictate their work. It is the role of the APS Supervisor to enforce these timelines and ensure compliance with state mandates.
- Establish Communication Systems - Supervisors are responsible for ensuring that their staff are informed through regular and effective communication channels such as email and meetings. This is especially important since APS Workers typically spend a considerable amount of time in the field and may have infrequent face-to-face contact with their supervisor.

Educational Role

- Skill Building - Supervisors are responsible for teaching staff new skills, not only with new workers but with seasoned staff.
- Teach Values and Belief System of Agency - The Supervisor plays a vital role in imparting to workers the overall mission and values that are integral to APS work but also that are a fundamental part of the larger agency.
- Provide Learning Opportunities - Supervisors must seek to provide educational and training opportunities that will help workers to engage with their work and develop new skills that will help them to meet future career goals.

Continued
• Teach Discipline and Accountability - Supervisors must help workers to develop skills that will enable them to manage their workloads effectively and stay in compliance with mandated timelines.
• Teach and Maintain the Historical Perspective - It is especially important for new workers to have an understanding of how APS programs have developed in a state or local county as this provides a context for understanding how elder abuse is viewed and how best practices for APS work have been developed.

Service and Support

• Physical and Emotional Well-Being - APS Workers are exposed to secondary trauma when they are out in the field and it is essential that Supervisors provide support and encourage self-care practices.
• Establish Mutual Respect - The supervisory relationship is built on trust and respect. A supervisor must model these qualities for a worker.
• Resolve Conflict - Supervisors must be able to competently manage problems and conflicts that arise between team members. If conflicts are not addressed effectively and promptly, the unity of the team may suffer.
• Demonstrate Empathy and Concern - APS Supervisors should model effective social work skills that they can then apply to their casework by demonstrating empathy and concern as appropriate.
• Communicate with Staff Regularly - Keeping staff informed is not only logistically important, but it is also a fundamental part of maintaining a healthy supervisory relationship.
