Selected Outcomes from Grantees

- Increased awareness by law enforcement about how to collaborate with APS (Nashville, TN)

- Law enforcement officers are much more likely to call the local APS agency when they believe that a situation may be elder abuse. The ALL grant APS trainer talks about a significant increase in calls made to him. (Ottawa, IL)

- Law enforcement officers are now calling APS on difficult cases and APS hotline workers have reported an increased number of calls from the Police Department, resulting in better collaboration on older victims’ cases. The trainings helped broaden officers’ understanding of what APS can and cannot do, developed more trust between the departments, and resulted in a more collaborative response to these cases. (Denver, CO)
Selected Outcomes from Grantees

- The Police Department has a representative on the Adult Protection Review Team, The Coalition on Abuse in Later Life, and the Colorado Coalition for Elder Rights and Abuse Prevention. The Department created a full-time Crimes Against Elders staffed by one detective. (Colorado Springs, CO)

- Worked with adult foster care homes to establish emergency housing options for up to 7 days for victims. (Morehead, MN)
Selected Outcomes from Grantees

- Prosecutors have started to accept cases directly from APS. (East Prairie, MO)

- Judges’ Comments after Judicial Institute (FL)
  - “I am trying to handle the cases involving seniors in my division first to avoid long waits for their cases.”
  - “The seminar sensitized me on the needs of seniors in terms of accommodating their travel, medication, etc. and the fear of the victim to agree to no violent contact when the victim is truly in fear.”
How the Grant Has Been Used to Enhance Local Efforts

- Florida Judges (Jacksonville)
- Sonoma County, CA (APS and Legal Services; continuing First Responder training)
- Washington, DC (Create advanced victim services cross training)

Practical Suggestions

- Be concrete and realistic with goals of grant in your community, history of collaboration, and expectations.
