The Office for Older Americans (OA) develops initiatives, tools, and resources to:

- Help protect older consumers from financial harm
- Help older consumers make sound financial decisions as they age
What is a network?

A sustained, and largely voluntary, collaborative effort or partnership that works to prevent, detect, and/or respond to elder financial exploitation.
Polling question

- Are you engaged with a network?
  - Yes
  - No
2016 Study Recommendations

- Elder abuse networks that do not focus on financial exploitation should develop activities and the capacity to respond to elder financial exploitation.
- Networks should seek to engage financial institutions, community-based organizations such as faith organizations and others that serve these communities.
Recommendations Con’t

- Develop Networks in areas with older Americans of diverse linguistic, ethnic and racial backgrounds should seek to engage stakeholders that serve these populations, and deliver educational and case review services relevant and appropriate to these populations.
Polling question

- For those of you engaged with a network, do financial institutions participate in your network?
  - Yes
    - Bank
    - Credit union
    - Other financial service
  - No
Expanding Networks across the Nation

- In 2017, the Bureau launched a pilot convening program to expand the presence of Elder Fraud Prevention and Response Networks (EFPRNs) and the capacity of existing networks.

- As a result of these convenings, OA developed a model for identifying potential networks, coordinating with key stakeholders, facilitating meetings, and garnering support to help initiate and enhance local EFPRNs.

Resources to build an elder fraud prevention and response network

Mobilize key stakeholders in your community to prevent, detect, and respond to elder financial abuse.

Elder financial exploitation threatens the financial security of millions of older Americans annually. In response to this crisis, hundreds of communities across the United States have created collaborative networks to protect their older residents.

Why create a Development Guide?

Stakeholders:

- Would benefit from detailed instruction
  - To help launch networks in communities where they do not currently exist, especially in those with a large number of older people, and
  - To build capacity and collaboration in existing networks to enhance prevention and respond to elder financial exploitation.
- Are already working full-time jobs and could use ready-made resources to plan, produce and host a retreat
- Need resources and guidance to establish and maintain the network thereafter
Launch a successful network: use our meeting model

Our meeting model includes two key meetings—a retreat and a post-retreat—to help you bring stakeholders together to increase and enhance the prevention of and response to elder financial exploitation.

Plan a retreat

A retreat is an effective way to rally stakeholders and community leaders together to create a collaborative network. Gather a core team of key community members to help you plan logistics and reach out to the wider community.

Host a retreat

How you conduct a retreat can set the tone for your network. Here are some suggestions on how to provide opportunities for collaboration and make sure everyone’s voice is heard during a retreat.

Reconvene and establish your network

After holding a retreat, it’s important to bring community stakeholders back together to determine next steps toward addressing priorities identified at the retreat.

Establish your network

Expand network capabilities

After your network establishes priorities, consider leveraging working groups to reach goals, engage the community, and grow the influence of the network.
